AN EXTRAVAGANT PICTURE

It is no wonder people are incredulous when they hear of the fabulous prices paid for screen rights of plays and novels, but I hear on excellent authority that the Famous Players Company has guaranteed to spend a full $1,000,000 on the movie version of "Ben Hur," for which the estate of Lew Wallace has been paid $750,000 cash for the picture rights and an additional $150,000 for the stage rights. Vincent Astor and Robert Walton Goellet have both put up money for this proposition, which is especially interesting as marking the entrance into the picture producing field of these gentlemen, the largest and second largest owners of New York City real estate.

EDITORIAL FLINGS OF THIS THAT 'EN TOTHER

One domino game has been in progress in Riverhead, Long Island, for twenty years. That's nothing, as those who sit through the movie serials week after week no doubt think.

It is said to be more economical in average experience to use a taxicab than to maintain an automobile and employ a chauffeur, but the way to make taxicabs fashionable is to put out propaganda to the contrary.

To give the quadruped his due, the four-footed porker is never guilty of such acts of piggishness and destructiveness as commonly are done by the drunken hog driving an automobile. Paris has a number of these animals.

The Paris girl who keeps a diary rarely ever makes therein this entry: "Washed the dishes for mother this morning," not because it would be commonplace record, but because she didn't.

The only time we have ever aspired to be a moving picture actor was once or twice when we wished we were close enough to some of the so-called "comedians" of the Hank Mann stripe to join in hitting him in the solar plexus or some other place where it would do the most good.

We do not know whether insects can reason, as a scientist suggests, but we do know that a mosquito knows how to get through a window screen and find you in the dark, or to find the way through an open-work stocking, either in the light or darkness.

A Main street merchant says the reason the pavements of Paris get so dusty in the early mornings is that the county borrowed the city's street sprinkler and kept it in use on the county roads all summer, having just returned it a day or so ago. The city street cleaning department gives the streets a course of "dry cleaning." Hence the dust—and hence "the charge of the broom brigade."

Ever notice the broom brigade at work on Paris pavements early in the morning? Looks like a company of soldiers on kitchen police duty. Arms swinging, backs bent, dust flying, pedestrians sneezing, it presents an animated scene to the spectator and some of the sweepers are not at all particular as to where they sweep the dust—on one's clothes or in the gutters.

A five-year-old Paris lad residing on High street had just become acquainted with the boys who moved in across the street. His vocabulary immediately expanded. Although accustomed to the use of slang his mother was quite shocked when she heard him say one evening as he was preparing for bed: "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep, If I should die before I wake—Well, I should worry!"

We confess to a great deal of disappointment. As we note, with considerable satisfaction, the increasing tobacco territory signed up, as we perceive that what began as a dream is likely to end as a realizable asset, we marvel how the anti-tobacco crusaders can be so supine. We do not hear them sounding the alarm and they seem wholly to neglect an opportunity left promising by the demise of boozers. As for ourselves, we smoke several kinds, thank you.

DON'T WAIST TIME

It's a waste of time to experiment with liniments and plasters when you have a dull, throbbing backache or sharp, stabbing twinges. Get after the cause! Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this.

Mrs. J. T. Martin, 1024 Main street, Paris, says: "I fell and received an injury which left my kidneys in a weakened condition. I suffered severely and although I took different remedies, nothing gave me a bit of relief. I was advised to take Doan's Kidney Pills and after a short use they relieved me. At that time my back ached and pained until I thought it would break in two. Sharp twinges of pain would shoot through my kidneys. In one week after taking Doan's Kidney Pills I felt like a different woman and I still take them whenever I feel my kidneys need a tonic." (Statement given February 17, 1908.)

On November 12, 1920, Mrs. Martin said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly all they are claimed to be and I recommend them just as strongly to-day as I did many years ago when I told of their good merits. I gladly confirm my former statement."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Martin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)

If a man comes to you for advice tell him what he wants to hear, and he will like you; if you tell him what you really think, he will hate you and do as he pleases anyhow.

W. T. Overby shipped from Paris to Begley & Co., at Detroit, Mich., 173 hogsheads of tobacco, making the largest shipment ever leaving Bourbon county. Required fifteen cars to transport it.

Among Republican candidates selected at Louisville by Collector Sapp was Dr. Louis Frank, formerly of Paris, for the office of School Trustee. Dr. Frank declined to make the race.

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Woman Only Weighed 76 Pounds—Now Weighs Over 100; Is Gaining Every Day

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss LaRue Davis, of Chattanooga, Tennessee.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand and I can truthfully say that it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Tanlac is sold at all first-class drug stores. (adv)

EDITOR FISHER THROWS BRICKS AT PARIS

In the recent issue of the Carlisle Mercury, Editor Warren Fisher throws a "brick" at Paris streets and other things:

"This week about fifty men have been engaged in reconstruction work on High street—and about one hundred and fifty able-bodied 'spectators' standing around watching them do the work.—Bourbon News.

"Those 'able-bodied spectators' must have been boys. Street reconstruction in Paris is such old stuff to be interesting to native Parisians who have attained their majority. Twenty-five years ago, the architect of this column remembers that you could never drive up Main street further than Mitchell's livery stable. If Main street was not being constructed, it was being excavated for gas pipe laying. When that was finished, naturally it had to be reconstructed. The reconstruction being done, it was immediately discovered that sewers must be dug, which entailed further reconstruction. So ad infinitum. Yea, brothers, those 'spectators' must have been infants."

"The stated purpose of a negro camp meeting at Paris, 'For the Salvation of Souls and For Financial Income' shows commendable frankness, at least."

SEVEN "BIG LEAGUE" BOOKS THIS YEAR

The modern authors whose books sell into the hundreds of thousands of copies can be counted on the fingers of your hands—with several fingers left over at that. The names include such big leaguers as Curwood, Gene Stratton Porter, Harold Bell Wright, Peter B. Kyne, Zane Grey, Sir Hall Caine, and, possibly, Ethel Dell. As a general rule not more than two or three of them are occupying the spotlight at the same time, and it has been years since some of them were heard from.

But this year! Every last one of the group named is coming out with a brand new novel—in fact, most of the group named is coming out with a brand new novel—in fact, most of them have actually struck the same month. Curwood's great new story called "The Flaming Forest" was published on August 10; Mrs. Porter's new novel is scheduled for the latter part of August; so is Harold Bell Wright's; and Sir Hall Caine's "Master of Men" makes its bow on August 29. Both Ethel Dell, with her new book about "The Obstacle Race," and Peter B. Kyne, with his drama of the New West titled "The Pride of Palomar," are due on September 24. Romantic winter ahead.

Signal Fires.

In Terre del Fuego news is conveyed and conversation sustained between the different tribes inhabiting the islands by means of fires on the high peaks of the mountains. The natives are always on the lookout for these fires, and know just what they are intended to mean.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Impressive.

Mrs. Proffiter (relating her experiences)—"Yes, my dear, and we saw a volcano. You know—one of those mountains which overflows with lager."—London Mail.

Notice to the Public

Due to the reconstruction of High street, in this city, and the necessity of tearing up our tracks, effective as of August 8, we will abandon operations on High street.

Interurban passenger cars will leave Fourteenth street two minutes later than the present schedule at the Fifth street interurban station.

Interurban freight will be received in a box car located on the siding at Fourteenth street.

BRIGHTER EVENINGS

Just History

In '76
The Colonial Dame
Spun her cloth
By Candle flame.

In 1860
In Crinoline bright,
She greeted her guests
By Coal Oil light.
And later on,
How time does pass
Her home was lit
By flickering Gas.

But the girl of to-day
Who wants her home bright,
Just presses a button
And has Electric Light.
